

Steven Heumann

ADVISORY BOARD

Steven Heumann is a brilliant author, visionary ghostwriter, and creative maestro whose unparalleled expertise has transformed countless dreams into published realities. Steven, founder of Super Heumann Creative, graduated from the University of Utah with a degree in broadcasting and immediately put it to good use. He began working as a freelance writer for television production house Chadwick Booth and Company and worked his way up to Senior Producer. Working in this position allowed Steve to oversee the creation of a new half-hour program every week, one of the most demanding workloads in television. This gave him the opportunity to write extensively, edit, film, and even host in front of the camera for many years, honing his craft. There are quite literally over 500 individual episodes that bare his mark, along with a dozen documentaries, government projects, and ad campaigns.

In 2007, Super Heumann branched into the short film world and began producing shorts in conjunction with several international film competitions, winning awards such as Best Writing (2007, 2014, 2015) Best Cinematography (2011) Best Director (2014) and Audience Favorite (2009, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2016)

Strong Fathers. Strong Families. Defending Freedom.

Despite his impressive television pedigree, Steve has spent a good portion of his time as an author, writing the contemporary science fiction novel Paper Heroes, as well as the popular Gavin Baller series. He has directed almost a dozen short films, winning numerous international film awards in the process, including Best Screenplay and Best Director. Steve always says that without a great script you can't have a great movie, and so he has worked for over a decade to sharpen his writing craft by penning several full-length scripts and prepping them for production. Between his short feature works, full movie manuscripts, and television writing, Steve has produced over one thousand scripts in the past twelve years, with the vast majority of them going into full production. Whether writing, producing, or directing, Steven Heumann has proven himself a force to be reckoned with in the television and film-making worlds.

He is a father of six, devoted husband, and dedicated storyteller.

Strong Fathers. Strong Families. Defending Freedom.